

I See, I Bless, I Release - David Washington

I see you. I bless you. I release.

Some words I've said or things I've done
Make no sense to me now.
I'd like to let them fade away.

Hurts I choose to remember
Still have meaning to me.
But I would give them up for peace.

I see you. I bless you. I release.

Long warm days of summer
Fade away to the fall.
Laughter kept us warm.

Images, like bits of thread,
Unravel in my hands
From our tapestry of love.

I know we are together,
Forever woven in time,
In the body of the One.

I see you. I bless you. I release.
